His current works can be described as organised chaos, featuring the use of complex rhythms and virtuosic guitar playing. The likes of "Toe" and "Chon".

In 2018, he released his first EP titled NYH sporting high energy metal instrumentals inspired by his love for video game music. Which he programmed, recorded, mixed and mastered himself as a Independent project. He also performed material from the EP at Anaki Rocks the City, Anaki MetalBeatz and Baybeats Audition that year.

In 2019, he released a single, titled "Space Rave". An instrumental rock track with top 40's pop influence met with shred guitar. Another independent project, where mixing, mastering, recording and programming were done by himself.

Apart from his original works, Yu Hao has also performed with various local acts and bands in Singapore. Having played with local RnB pop Singer, David Lau at the Esplanade concourse as well as a recent stint with 80's tribute band "The 24/7" for Esplanades' songs we grew up with.
